NEW OFFENSIVE ALONG ENTIRE WEST FRONT WINS VICTORY IN TWO DAYS' FIGHTING.

FAR-REACHING EFFECT

Russians Make More Decided Stand Against Austrians and Balkan Nations Hesitate to Join Central Powers.

BULLETIN.

Berlin, Sept. 27.—The German war was announced today that the new offensive movement in the neighborhood of Lille, northern France, had been brought to a standstill by fierce German counter attacks.

London, Sept. 27.—In two days the French and British have gained greater success than in the preceding twelve months of fighting in the battle of the Marne.

With upwards of 20,000 German prisoners and something like 300 guns, without counting machine guns in their hands, and with a formidable breach in the German line, the allies apparently have their long expected offensive movement under way. The advance had been general and its force emphasized by the fact that on the eastern front a substantial gain of the Russians is recorded.

Petrograd states the army of General Ivanoff has won a striking victory over the Germans and Austrians in the southeastern theatre, where 1,000 prisoners are said to have been taken.

Belgians Also Winning.

The Belgians also are taking a prominent part in the new offensive movement. Their official announcement reports the capture of a German post on the right bank of the Yser with the consequent evacuation by the Germans of adjoining trenches. It is believed in London that the new move in the west will again bring the Germans face to face with the necessity of making a choice between the two fronts.

Military writers point out that the Russians are now holding the Austrians and Germans on front of ten hundred miles, while the presence of nearly 2,000,000 strongly entrenched Germans has failed to prevent the advance in France. This, they say, must increase the perplexity of the German general staff and react immediately on any plan which may have been formed now at the south or southeast.

Effect on Balkans.

The feeling of optimism in London is not likely to affect the political effect which the allies appear to have had on the Balkan states. Dispatches from Sofia indicate that Bulgarian diplomats are eager to convince the allies that mobilization of the army was not prompted by hostile motives.

The latest official news from Petrograd is interpreted here as showing the Russians more dislodged in better position. This seems to be the case in the region of Dvinsk where Field Marshal Von Hindenburg has concentrated his efforts, perhaps at the expense of the southern front. The German attack now seems to be slackening.

Nowithstanding the successes of the allies, England is not blinded to the fact that it is no light task to attempt to push the Germans from positions honeycombed with trenches. Now that the allies have passed to the offensive, they have before them a problem the serious nature of which is fully recognized here.

Demonstration at Paris.

Paris, Sept. 27.—At one point in the environs of Paris yesterday, one hundred and twenty aeroplanes went into the air in a spontaneous demonstration of joy over the victories for the arms of the allies to the north and east.

One airman after another rose, waving the tricolor, until one hundred and forty machines were maneuvering.

Continue New Offensive.

Paris, Sept. 27.—The new offensive movement is continuing along the entire front in Champagne. The war office announced today that further German positions had been captured.

The announcement also says that all gains in the Artois region in northeastern France have been maintained. There is intense bombardment between the Meuse and Moselle.

Reports from the front say only twenty minutes were required for the French infantry to complete the victory prepared for by sixty hours of violent shelling and overrun the first line of German trenches north of Perthes, in Champagne. While awaiting the moment to attack the French soldiers rested behind the line, joking and putting their arms in perfect order. The bright glow from the new burning illuminating rockets and flares of exploding projectiles lighted up the entire zone of action during two nights.

Make Attack at Dawn.

After a few hours of intense fighting, our hopes that our batteries were dominant in the situation were transferred to certain conviction," says a wounded officer who took part in the battle. "The moment for the attack was set for dawn. When the charge was sounded, whole battalions, reinforced by reserves, bounded forward. The rush was so impetuous that the Germans still alive and unarmed were battered works seemed dazed and unable to resist. They were disarmed and pushed back to our reserve to pick up while the attacking line went on.

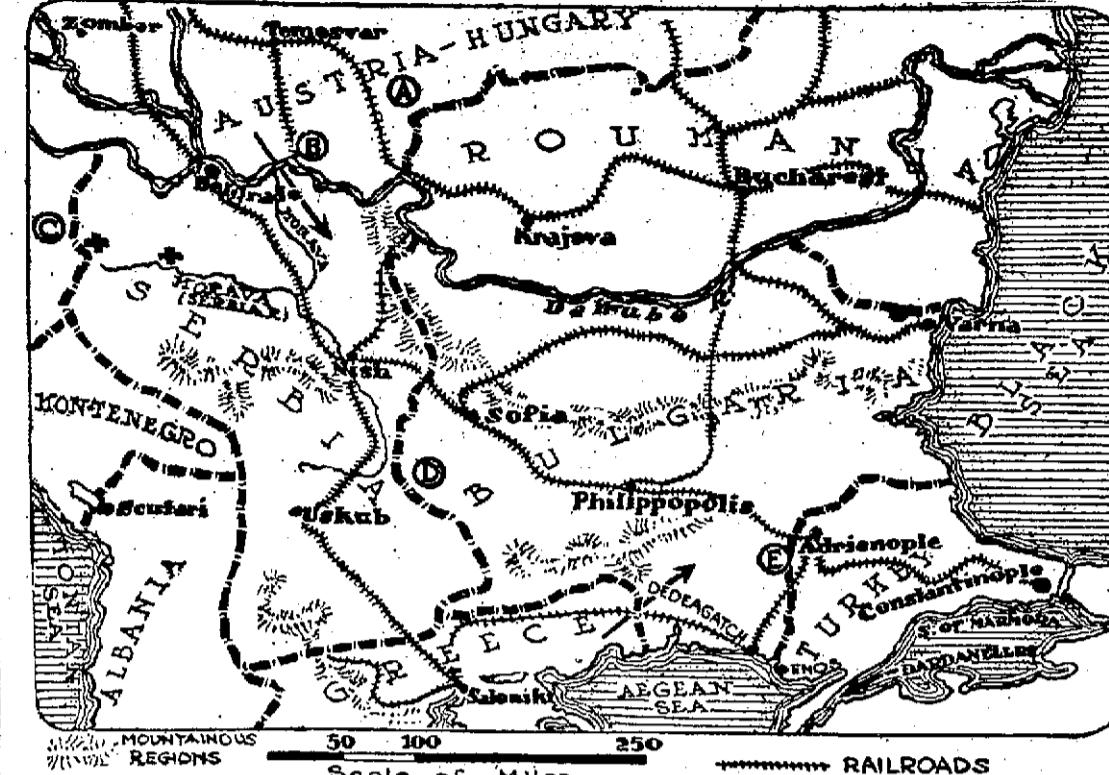

"There was little or no musketry. The bayonet did most of the work. The proportion of dead to wounded and prisoners was large. What was left of entire companies threw up their hands a sight of deadly execution by the Zouaves."

The general impression of wounded men brought from the field is that the affair of Perthes is only the beginning of French victory.

SUNDAY'S BULLETINS.

Drive of the allies results in greatest victory since the battle of the Marne.

From the sea to Verdun they have cut deeply into the German 200-mile line, at some places for depth of five and one-half miles.

The French at the northern and the French at the southern extremities of the line attacked simultaneously to outflank and surround or force the Germans to retreat from France. In two days they have captured 20,000 prisoners.

The German position in Champagne was penetrated for two and one-half miles over a fifteen-mile front, thereby menacing the German salient at Verdun.

Hill 70, commanding the rich mining district of Lens, was captured, and the allies threaten to outflank the Germans there.

The allies captured the Souchez, north of Arras, and have broken the German front on both sides of the La Bassée Canal for a width of five miles and a depth of 100 yards, cutting the village of Loos.

The German war office admits the loss of Loos and Souchez and a retirement for more than a mile in the Champagne. Trenches and earthworks were constructed by the Germans at great pains during the winter were captured, and the Germans were driven to their second line.

PAYS FIFTY DOLLAR FINE FOR OFFENSE

Walter Worey of Juda paid a fine of fifty dollars and costs in the municipal court this morning, when he pleaded guilty to the state charge of driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition on Sept. 24th. Worey was told by the police to report this morning, and true to his word the Jewish man was waiting to "take his medicine" in the form of a stiff fine at one o'clock. He drove the same manner this morning, but this time it did not travel down the streets of the city in such a zig-zag course as he did on Friday when arrested by Patrolman Fred Albrecht. On the plea of guilty Judge Maxfield sentenced him to a fine of three dollars and costs and promised to leave the city on the next train.

Walter McDonald of Waukesha plead guilty to being drunk and paid a fine of three dollars and costs and promised to leave the city on the next train.

Thomas Heffernan plead not guilty to first offense drunkenness and his case was set for October 5th. Bail to the amount of one hundred and fifty dollars was demanded.

The case of the State vs. Jens Everson, charged with wife desertion, was held open on the motion of District Attorney Dunwiddie.

The case of the State vs. Frank Williams of Afton, charged with reckless driving, was adjourned on a technicality. It was reported that Williams might be settled by payment of damages to the complainant.

An adjournment to October 27th was taken in the case of Peter Liston of Hanover, charged with selling liquor without a license, with the consent of the attorneys, Dunwiddie and E. H. Ryan.

Four Hundred Thousand Greeks Under Arms and Twenty Merchant Ships Requisitioned for Transports.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Berlin, Sept. 27.—A dispatch from Sofia, given out here today by the Overseas News Agency, says it is rumored that Bulgaria has sent an ultimatum to Serbia and that the diplomatic representatives of the entente powers in Bulgaria are preparing to depart. The dispatch adds that this rumor has not been confirmed officially.

The army in this section at present has no mounted artillery. It has some 4.7 field guns and some siege guns of the same calibre. Artillery larger than five-inch caliber is considered too heavy for quick movement through the muddy roads and uncharred brush of the river front section.

Continued killing of American soldiers has produced a bitter feeling among the American enlisted men.

Berlin, wireless to Tuckerton, N. After these losses the British ships withdrew.

The foregoing claim of losses inflicted upon the British naval forces attacking the Belgian coast was omitted from the official statement as cabled through London yesterday, doubtless having been struck out by the censor.

FINE PHOTOGRAPHY IN "FIGHTING BOB"

Wonderful Scenes Mark the Entire Passage of the Story of "Fighting Bob" a Picture Play.

Those Janesville lovers of "the silent drama" who braved the rain of Saturday night to see the picture "Fighting Bob" were certainly well paid for their hardihood. With Orson Welles in the title role and with the theme that is full of pathos and timely the picture was full of most intense action from start to finish. It is doubtful if a picture containing more action has ever been shown in this city.

"Fighting Bob" is the story of a mythical Central American republic and deals with the revolutions that take place in such countries. A number of battle scenes are shown and here the photographer is given full chance to play his art and the man back of the camera was in this instance an artist is not doubted by anyone who saw the picture. A beautiful love story runs through the entire piece and the scenic settings are of the gorgeousness one might expect of a Central American picture.

It has been suggested that "Fighting Bob" be shown at Myers Theatre again in the near future and if it is so announced the announcement will be welcomed.

M'GOVERN REACHES FALSE CONCLUSION

CUT OFF TWO AND A HALF MILLION IN 1913 APPROPRIATIONS MERELY DEFERRED BURDEN.

TANGLE IS CLEARED UP

Contentions of L. C. Whittet, Governor's Financial Agent, Regarding Appropriations, Found to Be Sound.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 27.—In view of the widespread interest and incidentally the widespread misunderstanding that has arisen as a result of the recent controversy between former Governor E. M. McGovern and L. C. Whittet, Governor Philip's financial counsel, this article has been written in an effort to clear up the situation. It is based on numerous references to public documents and interviews with state officials and heads of departments.

The peculiar aspect of the recent tangle is that while the same figures are used different conclusions are arrived at. This is accounted for somewhat by the fact that both men had a different objective in view. Summing up Mr. McGovern's argument in a few words it is his contention that the present administration is possessed of a greater amount of spending money than the last administration. He admits that the difference in appropriations matches $250,000—a relatively small sum—but he argues that it represents an increase nevertheless.

Mr. Whittet decries that the total liabilities of the state for the present biennium have been swelled by overhanging appropriations, foisted on the present administration by the previous chief executive by means of the "gentlemen's agreement." Mr. McGovern answers by saying that the recent legislation has not repealed these overhanging appropriations. What are the facts?

Mr. McGovern's figures are right so far as they go. He is wrong in his conclusions because they are based on incomplete premises. In the first place Mr. McGovern attempts to compare the liabilities of the 1913 legislature with the liabilities of the 1912 legislature, after they had been cut out by Mr. McGovern. Let us rather compare the amount the 1912 legislature left in the way of a burden with the amount the 1913 legislature has placed at the disposal of the present administration. We find that when the 1913 legislature had adjourned the total liability of the state for 1913-15 was $32,662,682.37. For 1915-17 this total is $30,465,198.06. So we find that the 1915 legislature was unwilling to spend as much by approximately $2,200,000 as the 1913 legislature did. In other words the above figure shows the final liabilities of the two legislatures and they bring out the fact that the present legislature carried out its program of retrenchment. However, Mr. McGovern asserts that he stepped in and through the medium of the gentlemen's agreement cut down the 1913-15 liabilities of the state by some $2,455,000—this latter figure being the amount of the appropriation he claims he could cut out. This left $30,207,682.37 as the total liability of the state for the biennium instead of $32,662,682.37. Or in other words the sum of $30,207,682.37 represents, according to Mr. McGovern's own assertion, the financial action of the 1913 legislature, as modified by the action of the then chief executive. And the figure of $30,465,198.06 represents only the financial action of the 1915 legislature modified by the action whatever of the part of Governor Philip. What is to bind Governor Philip from also entering into a gentlemen's agreement and cutting down the appropriations of the 1916 legislature? How does Mr. McGovern know that Gov. Philip will not withhold his approval to some building contracts? Is it not manifestly unfair for Mr. McGovern to compare the 1913 legislature with the 1915 legislature? The 1913 legislature had itself to do with the 1915 liabilities that it assumed. Suppose that had been done. Suppose Mr. McGovern had not entered into any gentlemen's agreement. Then we find that the total liability of the state for 1915-17 would be lessened by $1,800,000, which would have reduced this figure from $30,465,198.06 (what it is at the present time) to $28,565,195.06. Or in other words, if Mr. McGovern had not shifted the appropriations, the total liability of the state for the biennium instead of $32,662,682.37, or in other words the sum of $30,207,682.37 represents, according to Mr. McGovern's own assertion, the financial action of the 1913 legislature, as modified by the action of the then chief executive. And the figure of $30,465,198.06 represents only the financial action of the 1915 legislature modified by the action whatever of the part of Governor Philip. What is to bind Governor Philip from also entering into a gentlemen's agreement and cutting down the appropriations of the 1916 legislature?

Suppose that had been done. Suppose Mr. McGovern had not entered into any gentlemen's agreement. Then we find that the total liability of the state for 1915-17 would be lessened by $1,800,000, which would have reduced this figure from $30,465,198.06 (what it is at the present time) to $28,565,195.06. Or in other words, if Mr. McGovern had not shifted the appropriations, the total liability of the state for the biennium instead of $32,662,682.37, or in other words the sum of $30,207,682.37 represents, according to Mr. McGovern's own assertion, the financial action of the 1913 legislature, as modified by the action of the then chief executive. And the figure of $30,465,198.06 represents only the financial action of the 1915 legislature modified by the action whatever of the part of Governor Philip. What is to bind Governor Philip from also entering into a gentlemen's agreement and cutting down the appropriations of the 1916 legislature?

How does Mr. McGovern know that Gov. Philip will not withhold his approval to some building contracts? Is it not manifestly unfair for Mr. McGovern to compare the 1913 legislature with the 1915 legislature? The 1913 legislature had itself to do with the 1915 liabilities that it assumed. Suppose that had been done. Suppose Mr. McGovern had not entered into any gentlemen's agreement. WASTING SOLDIERS.

Goodness only knows that the United States has not any surplus of soldiers in its regular army that it can afford to miss a few without return to the enemy that slays them. However, as the Milwaukee Sentinel says:

"Eighty armed Mexicans invade the territory of the United States, kill a member of the United States army, wound one of its officers, and loot and burn an office of the United States post."

"Then they retire beyond the sacred border of the Mexican republic and are secure."

"This is the rule. Mexicans cross our border to loot, burn, and kill. We may not cross the Mexican border to punish."

"It is said the state department will warn Carranza because of the latest breach of our good nature."

"We hope this warning will be so phrased as not to offend the sensitive soul of Senor Carranza or give any ground for suspicion among the intelligent Mexican people that we may not be too proud to fight."

"But we venture to make one suggestion: Why keep so many of our soldiers along the border where they are likely to be hurt? We are beginning to hear from a number of leading democrats how expensive our army is. It is un-democratic extravagance to let them be killed in these pleasant visits from our amiable Mexican neighbors, unless, of course, this is to be our system of disarmament."

CORN AND FROST.

While Wisconsin is fast becoming recognized as one of the corn growing states of the middle west, still the loss, or partial loss, of the crop here would not materially decrease the general crop reports of the country as a whole. An eastern exchange, writing of the situation and progress of the fight between corn and frost, says that all of the cereal crops are practically safe, with the exception of corn. Much of that corn also is now assured, but in the northern latitudes it is in the position of the Russian army which is not prepared to face its enemy, and must play for time.

Approximately 65 per cent of the corn crop is raised in eight states of the middle west. Private reports show that in these no anxiety need be felt for it, except in Missouri and Iowa. With a late start in the spring, never fully made up, northern Iowa at least needs good weather up to the middle of October. Killing frosts before that time would work damage, as much of the corn is still in the milk.

In the eastern states of the north the autumn weather has been ideal for ripening, and the crop is in a satisfactory condition. As soon as cut and shocked it would welcome frost weather to dry and harden the grain. Here the only damage resulting from frost before it is cut would be injury to the fodder, which is utilized to a much greater extent than in the west.

With favorable opening weather for the whole area in corn, a three billion bushel crop seems almost a certainty. Whatever is to be deducted from that figure will depend upon the extent of damage done by killing frosts. If any, coming before the grain in some few localities is still unshelled. But even if it should come before we are ready for it, a large yield of corn is assured. This is the country's most valuable crop, and, if safely harvested, will bulk big in the season's business.

CHILDLIKE CONFIDENCE.

That is the way the New York Times characterizes La Follette's attitude on the Seaman's law which is arousing so much intense interest throughout the country. In view of the fact that Wisconsin is about to enter upon another of its political contests between the conservative and progressive republicans it will be interesting to note what the Times has to say on the subject.

The first great fight in Wisconsin for control of the state will be for the delegates to the national convention of the republican party. It is expected that La Follette and his followers will have a carefully prepared ticket of the four delegates at large and the district delegates all prepared shortly and work for their election at the spring primary will be in order. The conservatives believe that such questions should be decided in a good old-fashioned convention.

With this idea in view they have instructed the committee that called the republican state convention last year to issue a call for a similar gathering to be held some time in the early winter, or as soon as the national committee issue the call for delegates, to place such a list of delegates in nomination.

But to return to the Times and its article, which opens by saying:

Senator La Follette, the ancient mariner of the Badger seas, has garnered the relics of the seaman's act in his arms and is defending them without mitigation or remorse of voice. Last summer he saw the country "the victim" of the shipping interests, with commercial organizations, and such foes of humanity, to discredit the joint statesmanship of himself and Andrew Furuseth. The relentless paring down of the law at Washington, the wide and strong demand for the repeat have left him "undismayed," says the Washington correspondent of the Newark Evening News, wherein he takes up two columns and a half in answering the criticisms of the conspirators. Washington tells us that "he has girded himself for fierce battle with the shipping interests." Likewise with the facts.

It would be a weariness of the flesh to follow in detail the "answers" which Mr. La Follette makes to the fatal reasons against a measure which justified his opponents months before the day when it is to become effective. Sometimes he misstates the objection. The critics aver that the seaman's act "violates no treaties," he says;

It will cause the abrogation of between twenty and thirty treaties. This is in accordance with the provisions of these treaties, and with the provisions of sections 16 and 17 of the act.

Complying with the act, the government has denounced these treaties and notified the governments concerned that it is ready to negotiate new treaties to conform with the provisions of our law. The treaties will be restored shorn of the provisions they now contain and which are objectionable to the terms of the seamen's law.

The childlike confidence of this is touching. The government muddles our relations with between twenty and thirty countries, which will cheerfully forego the maritime advantages thrown at their heads by the United States and conform to the seamen's law. As to the prediction before the law was passed that "it will drive the sea many of the American ships now competing with foreign vessels," Mr. La Follette declares that "this is a gratuitous assertion not based upon fact."

The Pacific Mail Steamship company, then, has not withdrawn from the Pacific. The Robert Dollar Steamship company did not change its registry to British because it could not operate its boats under the Furuseth-La Follette law. Japanese freighters have not come to this port. The Japanese are not the beneficiaries of the folly of congress. The American Asiatic society, urging congress to reconsider that folly before "all prospects of the rehabilitation of American shipping" are destroyed, was acting on a gratuitous assertion and in conspiracy with the shipping interests. Samuel Sewall of that longfamous bath house of A. & E. Sewall, was following gratuitous assertion when he said that his people were out of the shipping business because "we've a better use to make of what money we have than to run ships for the benefit of labor unions and politicians."

Now politicians and labor unions

Mr. La Follette and Mr. Furuseth are the sole experts and authorities about American shipping. What is hard business fact to the men in the shipping business is "an untruth" or "a gratuitous assertion not based upon fact" to the ancient mariner of Madison. Fact angers him. And so accuses the shipping men of a "conspiracy" to injure themselves for the sake of "chuckling obliquity" at his undivided share of the law to handicap American shipowners for the profit of the foreign competitors.

President Wilson apparently does not miss William Jennings Bryan at all while William Jennings misses Wilson's whole heap.

Dr. Dumba is now in a hurry to start for home thus meeting with public sentiment to a wonderful degree.

The Best Resort.
We've spent weary days and nights
And burned much kerosene
Trying to choose some resort
Where the rooms were clean
Where the meals are not too high,
With enough to eat;
Where the sea birds do not bite,
And the festive skeet;
Where the fishin' is good;
Where a feller's apt to feel
Nearly as he should.
But we've given up the quest
And we will not roam.
Best resort that we know of
Is our humble home.

One gossiping housemaid.
One intercepted letter.

SIDE TALKS —By— RUTH CAMERON

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

"I would not count among my list of friends, though blessed with polished manners and I'm sense, yet lacking sensibility, the man who needlessly sets foot upon a worn-out Cowper."

"Is there anything more disagreeable than to anyone of decent feeling than a man who is abhorrent to animals or children?"

"I have just changed one of my tradesmen, not because of the quality of his products, but because his arrival at my door is a blot on my day."

The Kind of Man I Don't Like To Trade With:

In the middle of the forenoon I hear a rattle-bang outside my window, then a harsh voice. It is he. He is shouting harshly at either the horse or the little boy who accompanies him and helps deliver.

The atmosphere of ill-leashed temper, the pity I feel for the child and the horse darkens my day. It is as if a cloud shut out the sun.

Other factors entered somewhat in the case, but that was the chief factor in making me rise up and discontinue my dealings with him. And to my everlasting discredit I didn't tell him the reason, but offered some feeble, trumpered up explanation.

I Am Ashamed of My Cowardice.

It is cowardice and subtleties like that of mine that keep people from seeing how their faults hamper them. A man deserves a stenographer for inaccuracy and tells her he has decided it would be better for the office interests to have him in her place. And the girl naturally makes no effort to overcome the inaccuracy.

However, that's another story altogether. It's the man who is wantonly unkind to children and animals, especially the latter, that I'm hot against to-day. I believe there is something very important lacking in the soul of a man who will kick a dog or abuse a horse.

Do You Agree With This Detective?

I once read a story of a man detective who had to pick out from two men the man who had been brutal to his wife. One of the two kicked a dog. The detective immediately decided upon the other man who defended the dog on the ground that the man who is kind to dogs is not kind to women.

I can't place the author now, but I remember that he was a person of authority. Nevertheless his reasoning seems at fault to me. At any rate, from what I've seen of men, I'd trust myself to the man who defended the dog over the inaccuracy.

The dumbness, the helplessness of animals is an appeal to the higher side of human nature. The man who can ignore it shows a dangerous deafness of the soul.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed To Mrs. Thompson, In Care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man twenty years old and I am desperately in love with a girl two years my junior. She is pretty and lively, can dance well, play the tennis and swim, and can do more stunts than anyone I have ever known. I never saw such a popular girl before, and so my chances are small for seeing her very often.

She goes with the football players at school and all the fellows that amount to anything. I am big myself, but I never played football because my father would not let me. Of course, I am not thinking of marriage or even engagement, I just want an attractive girl to call on. What would you advise me to do to make myself attractive to her as some of the other fellows are? I dress well, because I make a good salary and can afford to. I think I have as much money as anyone she goes with, but that does not seem to count for much. —BIG BEN.

Don't merely call on the girl. A girl of her type likes to do something, or go to places. Go in for tennis and to dinner, to the theater and to other forms of sport. Take her out dancing, if you dance well. Buy her candy, once in a great while. Don't do it too often or she will want you to come for what she is going to get.

DISCOURAGED.

(1) The girl will not have got over her habit of she won't have a chance to break dates long. Most boys drop a girl after they have been treated that way once. If she does it again, I would drop her, if I were you.

(2) It is proper to ask her for a date, although you have made her acquaintance only casually and without an introduction?

DESPERATE.

You suggested some time ago, a one-half per cent solution of silver nitrate as mouthwash and gargle for one who would rid himself of the tobacco habit. Please exact details.

Answer—Have a druggist dissolve about 30 grains of silver nitrate in a pint (16 ounces) of distilled water, in an amber bottle. Directions: Use two tablespoonsfuls, as mouthwash and gargle twice a day for a week.

Meanwhile, eat a vegetarian diet, a meal consisting entirely of fresh fruit.

Chew gum like a stomatographer. Eat candy and sweets in general. Keep busy—and invest your tobacco savings in a good life insurance policy.

The Iowa Idea!

My druggist, declares F. F. J., says he never heard of bismuth citrate, one of the ingredients in a formula you suggested for dyeing gray hair black. Please let me know what is.

Answer—Ask your druggist if he ever heard of the United States Pharmacopoeia. Maybe he searched the almanacs instead.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Peach stains will yield readily to a treatment with spirits of camphor. Soak for a while in camphor, then wash in pure water.

A little butter in apple, cherry or peach pie improves the flavor.

When cushion covers become faded, if they are of cover material, they may be made for bags for holding dusting and cleaning rays. Tack onto inside of the cellar door or in any convenient place.

Quickly cut sweet corn to dry or can, use the slaw cutter, as it can be made to cut fine or coarse.

Make a silence cloth of cheese-cloth with several layers of paper between, and you will never be troubled with fuzz on your polished table, caused by hot dishes.

NOBODY KNOWS BUT MOTHER.

Nobody knows the work it takes to keep the home together; Nobody knows the steps it takes, Nobody knows but mother.

Keep a small basket handy. In it place the things to be taken up stairs when you are going up and when you are making the beds and dusting the things which are to be brought down. "Make your head save your heels."

Thrift in making trips to the pantry, cupboard or ice box. If you cannot take things and bring others on the same trip.

Keep a chair or revolving stool in the kitchen and, wherever possible, sit down to work. Vegetable paring, cake beating and many other tasks may be done sitting.

Have a method in your work. Occasionally take time to sit down and think over the day's work and remember how many unnecessary steps you took yesterday.

Have your kitchen shelves arranged to suit your own height, so that there is no unnecessary straining to reach up or bending over to reach one set too low.

Two maxims that will help housekeepers simplify their work are: "Plan for everything" and "Everything in its place," and "Plan your work, then your plan."

THE TABLE.

Little Turkeys—Four pork chops cut thick, two cups bread crumbs, one medium-sized onion, small piece of any kind of liver (beef, lamb or pork), one or two oysters cut up small, seasonings. Mince packed in each chop, have the stuffing render, bread crumbs, onion chopped fine and liver or oysters, all well seasoned with salt and pepper. Bake an hour in moderate oven. Now that the cold days are coming this is a delicious way to serve pork chops when something different is needed.

Instantly passengers leaned to watch uniformed men who marched steadily through the blistering sun.

There was no cheering. Groups of citizens gathered to regard them with grace, interest, the royal Canadian city that was brilliant and shouting during the departure of her first warriors now gave up her sons with silent, dutifulness. Some of those who had glowed in the exciting God-speed of flowers, bands and banners were now dead in the trenches, smitten with disease, maimed. Patriotic hearts grieved.

As a hundred hero-worshipping children swarmed about the unkempt line the American woman broke down.

"Take me home," she wept. "I can't bear to see them. Poor, poor fellows. I can't stay in Canada. I want to go home."

Two sets—advantageous old woman, straight and fashionable in spite of her seventy years, set a withered smile after the procession.

"Well," she remarked in shill satisfaction. "That ought to be enough to kill a few Germans, anyhow."

The motorman swore softly. A stout American almost as his elbow was unconscious that tears ran down her cheeks as she sat watching other women's sons trudge warward.

As a body the potential fighters were unimpressive. All the city's finest had been sent away long before; recruiting officers were making

THE BREAD AND MILK CLUB TAKES A WALK.

A year ago we didn't believe it possible.

But it has really come to pass.

Where's that fellow who says the world stands still?

The Bread and Milk club, as you know, celebrates Monday of each week by giving the hard-working stomach a much-needed rest. Instead of tickling the palate with all sorts of things members on this day acutely deny themselves everything but bread and milk or crackers and milk, of which a little every two hours or so.

We were surprised at the rapid growth of the average individual.

It would last about one month.

You see, only hearty, over-fed, bilious auto-intoxicating victims are eligible, and these poor creatures generally get well when they can't eat like a horse. But defections were few, and indeed the charter members are still active.

Encouraged by the work of saving the race, we next proposed something perhaps insanely.

We suggested that each member in good standing should take this prescription for his liver: two miles of oxygen three times a day.

The club is now more wieldy, if less tractable. The ranks have thinned out something scandalous. You may lead a high liver to rest his stomach, but you can't make him walk. He is too fond of his automobile and the street cars, dresses, maintains, were made to admire, not to use. So he made a definite rule not to use.

Not in visiting your relatives?"

"Not in visiting your relatives?"

"Oh, there is no harm in it if it does not interfere with worship," she replied.

"You went to church last Sunday, mother. We thought you would enjoy going to this lovely farm," Olive said as she looked at her.

"Going to church is not a thing you can do once and have it done with it for a month or a year," said Mrs. Dunn.

Remarkable. "It should become a habit in youth."

I agree with you perfectly, mother, but Mrs. Morton is expecting us today for dinner, and that made church out of the question for this time. If you had said you preferred not to go on Sunday, of course we could have made other arrangements.

WOMEN ARE ENROLLED IN DEFENSE LEAGUE

Mrs. F. C. Grant of this city is appointed to organize work in Janesville.

D. A. R. MEMBERS LEAD

Prominent Club Women All Over Country Are Taking Conspicuous Part In Patriotic Movement.

Mrs. F. C. Grant of this city has been appointed a member of the National Committee of the Woman's Section of the Navy League of the United States to organize the local work of that body in arousing the women of the United States to the necessity in the present days of stress and peril to work for the ends of patriotism and national defense. She will act in conjunction with a body of over one thousand of the most prominent women in every section of the United States numbering among them Mrs. William Cummings Story, president general of the D. A. R.; Mrs. Daisy McLaurin Stevens, president general of the Daughters of the Confederacy; Mrs. George Dewey, Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst, Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer, Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, Mrs. Grace M. Pierce, registrar D. A. R.; Mrs. Augustus P. Gardner, Mrs. Medill McCormick, Mrs. Ralph Bea Strassburger, Mrs. George Harvey, Miss Julie Marlowe and a host of others.

Women Real Patriots.

The woman's section of the Navy League is the first and only woman's organization in this country working for the cause of patriotism and national defense. It was organized by a number of patriotic women in Washington whose husbands were members of the men's Navy League who thought that women ought to have some part in the national defense movement exclusively their own. The idea came to the cause of patriotism instantly struck a responsive chord in the hearts and imaginations of the patriotic women all over the country, and the section has spread like wild fire. Letters have been received from prominent women all over the country, enthusiastically endorsing the league, and memberships have been pouring in at the rate of several thousand a day. At present, although the work is being done progress only a little more than two weeks, the section has over ten thousand active working members, and enthusiasm runs high.

MEMBER'S PLEDGE
Woman's Section of the Navy League.
I pledge myself to think, talk and work for patriotism, Americanism and sufficient national defenses to keep standard of patriotism and Americanism, as did their mothers and grandmothers in 1776 and 1812," says a typical letter from Miss Grace M. Pierce, registrar of the D. A. R. "Patriotic women today are like the fountain-head of true patriotism, the courage and true national spirit of Dolly Madison, Martha Washington and Nancy Hanks still lives in the land. When the test comes American women will tell their husbands and sons to go serve their country and come back with their shields sheathed just as bravely and just as sincerely as did the Spartan women ages ago. I am sure the new woman's movement for patriotism and national defense, heart and soul, and that such a movement should have been started long ago."

Prominent Women Enrolled.

Among others from whom enthusiastic letters have been received are Mrs. George Dewey, Mrs. John A. Logan, wife of General Logan of Civil War fame; Mrs. Mary A. Lockwood, founder of the D. A. R.; Mrs. Douglas Robinson, sister of Theodore Roosevelt, and Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie. The woman's section hopes before autumn to pledge one hundred thousand women to think, talk and work for patriotism, Americanism and national defense. To that end it is sending out printed pledges to women all over the United States. When these pledges are returned signed they will be attached to a massive petition to congress for national defense. By the time congress assembles the section hopes to be able to present in the neighborhood of half a million signed pledges from women for national defense.

The woman's section also intends to give a gigantic, patriotic national pageant in Washington in the fall, which offers a cash prize of $100 for the most attractive costume. The scenarios to be judged by a committee consisting of David Belasco, Julia Marlowe, Colonel George Harvey, Mrs. William Cummings Story and Mrs. Daisy McLaurin Stevens. Several thousand women and children will take part in the pageant in the Capital city, and no effort will be spared to make it the most impressive affair of its kind ever given in the nation's capital. The various localities in which the section builds up strong organizations other pageants will be held. Board of trade and commercial and political bodies of all sorts will be invited and no effort will be spared to point out to the law-makers of the country the necessity of providing national defense, and of adopting such measures as shall encourage the growth of true patriotism throughout the land.

The pledge of the woman's section of the Navy League is as follows:

Patriotic Homes Are the Safety of the State.

"It is time that the women of this country freed themselves from the stigma of standing for peace at any price, lack of preparedness and national cowardice, and rallied to the horrors of war far from America's homes and shores forever."

In these days of national strife and peril I will strive to do my share to awaken our nation and our law-makers to the dangers of our present undefended condition so that we may continue to dwell in peace and prosperity and may not have to mourn our desolation by war within our own borders."

As I am able, I will make my home a center of American ideals and patriotism, and endeavor to teach the children in my care to honor and revere Our Country and its history, and to uphold its honor and fair réputation of its generation.

The Navy League is a non-partisan patriotic organization composed of private citizens banded together to work for a navy which will be sufficiently large to render invasion and war in this country impossible. They believe that if the American navy is sufficiently powerful to guard the seas at all times no foreign foe can ever seriously threaten us. When our land will remain free from the ravages of ruinous wars and almost equally costly and ruinous competition in building and maintaining great armadas and military establishments which have so wrecked and devastated Europe. The headquarters of the Navy League are situated in the Southern building, Washington, D. C., and information concerning the League will be gladly furnished to any one interested.

The committee consisted of Sam Bracken, J. E. Overn, A. F. Testal, Vernon Stearns and J. F. Sweeney, the latter formerly of Janesville. The Wrigley's board has already been conferred with in connection with engineer in the lakes and has had engineers engaged to make soundings. SPRING WATER DIET GIVES HEALTH TO PHYSICIAN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Geneva, O., Sept. 27.—Menu: breakfast—springwater; lunch—water from the spring; dinner—more spring water.

That was the diet Dr. H. G. Hunman, Youngstown, O., oculist, lived for 47 days and he regained his health when physicians said he would die.

His first fainting spell was a bet with death. His second this year amounting to 31 days—was merely to fulfill a policy he intends to carry out as long as he lives. This policy is:

"Eat nothing one month a year and feel like you were up in the clouds the other 11."

"A year ago five Youngstown physicians decreed I had but a short time to live," said Dr. Hunman, "but I concluded that since I had to die I might as well do it in the words I loved."

The doctor's camping place is on the Grand river banks near here.

"Once out here," he continued, "I decided to take the long chance—to quit eating. I won the bet. It wasn't so hard to fast as one might suppose. After the first five days I wasn't hungry in the ordinary sense of hunger.

When I felt my kind of hunger I'd wait for the spring and make a square meal of a few cups of water. One gradually becomes weak and faint, but not a sickly or dizzy faintness. One doesn't think of food—very much.

While fasting I am unable to sleep more than four hours a day. Normally I sleep eight. After ten days of fasting my ribs could be counted out at 100 yards. But after the fast, a west of good meals sends me out."

Dr. Huffman, 46, is the very picture of health. Although his fasts ended for this year he says he will remain in his camp tent until the snow flies.

What Proper Advertising Will Do To Make A Successful Auction

The first auction sale of the season was a big success.

At a sale held by James Van Etta on his farm at Lima Center Wednesday, Sept. 22, Col. Dooley, the auctioneer, sold $3300 worth of stock and implements in 3 hours.

The attendance was large and the bidding was spirited. 37 cows, averaged $64.50 a head. 50 cows and calves averaged $55 a head, and everything else sold in the same proportion.

The advertising used to bring this large crowd of really interested buyers consisted of three auction advertisements in the Janesville Daily Gazette and a few bills.

In speaking of the sale afterwards, Col. Dooley remarked, "It was one of the nicest sales I ever sold. The advertising in the Gazette did more than anything else to make it so successful. The money invested this way was returned many times over."
